

Pre-Production Essay

Novie Janine Rubio

Web Authoring II

My journey into web development began with humble projects in high school, fostering a love for crafting websites. While my youthful passion lay in art, it was the fusion of artistic expression with web design that truly ignited my fervor.

Celebrating the unbounded creativity and innocence inherent in childhood, the gallery presents a curated collection of artworks, spanning from hand drawings to digital art, crafted during formative years. Each piece encapsulates the essence of youthful imagination and untamed creativity.

Designed as an online sanctuary, it invites a multifaceted audience—art enthusiasts, collectors, parents, educators, psychologists, and those drawn to genuine childhood expression. Visitors can immerse themselves, reliving their own childhood or appreciating the unfiltered imagination of young artists. The platform aims to spark nostalgia and foster an appreciation for the raw and genuine nature of childhood art.

Ultimately, this gallery serves as a bridge between my past love for creativity and my present pursuit of web development. It not only showcases the artwork from my childhood, preserving the genuine essence of creativity and innocence, but also stands as a testament to my emerging web development skills. Through this intersection of my passions, I aspire to inspire others to explore the harmonious blend of technology and artistry in the digital landscape.